

Step by Step: Applying for Nebraska's Refundable School Readiness Tax Credit

Child care providers: ACT NOW to apply for as much as $1,567 in refundable credits on your upcoming 2020 tax return.

In 2020, the Nebraska Legislature fixed the School Readiness Tax Credit Act to make sure more of our state's hard-working child care providers can take advantage of these financial benefits.

Individual child care providers can apply for refundable tax credits ranging between $532 and $1,597 on their next tax return, based on their professional classification level as defined by Step Up to Quality, Nebraska's child care quality rating and improvement system.

These credits will be available to providers through the 2021 tax year, but time is running out to claim them on your 2020 tax return.

This resource sheet can help guide you through the four basic steps for applying.

Review the eligibility requirements for the refundable tax credit

Visit the Step Up to Quality (SUTQ) website at <https://www.education.ne.gov/stepuptoquality/providers-educators/resources/tax-credits/> to review the eligibility requirements and tiered tax credit amounts.

employment

The refundable credit is open to self-employed providers or individual child care staff members. In either case, the applicant must have been employed for at least 6 months in a child care program that is participating in Step Up to Quality. Consult the Step Up to Quality website for additional information about base educational and training requirements.

Instructions

Who May File. An individual who is employed with, or who is a self-employed individual providing child care and early childhood education for an eligible program for at least six months of the taxable year, and who has been assigned a classification level pursuant to the Nebraska Early Childhood Professional Record System, may apply for the income tax credit available under this program. An eligible program is one that has been assigned a quality scale rating under the Step Up to Quality Child Care Act. Certified teaching and administrative staff employed by before-and-after-school or pre-kindergarten programs established by school boards or educational service units are not eligible to receive credits under this program.

When to File. This application for credits must be filed after you have been employed with or self-employed and providing child care and early childhood education for an eligible program for at least six months of the taxable year.

What to File. Attach and submit a signed School Readiness Tax Credit Act—Attestation of Staff Member Classification Level along with this application.

Specific Instructions

Applicant Information. Enter current name, mailing address, and SSN.

Eligible Program Information. Enter the name, address, and dates of employment. If you were employed by more than one eligible program, attach a list of additional employers. Be sure to include the name, address, and dates of employment for each additional employer.

Identify Classification. Place an "X" next to the most recent level you have been assigned on the Nebraska Early Childhood Professional Record System.

Signature. This application must be signed by the qualifying individual. Include a daytime phone number in case the Nebraska Department of Revenue (DOR) needs to contact you about the application. By entering an email address, the taxpayer acknowledges that DOR may contact the taxpayer by email. The taxpayer accepts any risk to confidentiality associated with this method of communication. DOR will send all confidential information by secure email or the State of Nebraska's file share system.
